Itinerary

Ciudad Bolivar - Canaima - Ciudad Bolivar

On your morning flight from Ciudad Bolivar to Canaima you will fly into the Canyon of Auyantepuy to the Angel Falls, the highest waterfall in the world. After flying by the falls you will land at Canaima where you will find the famous waterfalls of the Canaima lagoon. From here you will cross the lagoon on a "curiara" (Indian dugout canoe) which will take you to a short hiking trail where you will begin an easy hike to a waterfall called El Sapo, here you will find yourself following the trail that takes you directly behind the curtain of water of this incredible waterfall (be ready to get wet!!). After the excursion you will be offered a Lunch. At the afternoon you will still have time to explore the Village of Canaima or just relax at the beach of the Canaima lagoon before your plane takes you back to Ciudad Bolivar. (-/L/-)

This tour can be done all year long. It is a good alternative to the 3 day tour to Angel Falls which can not be done during the dry season, between Dec and June.

General Remarks

If you wish to continue to Santa instead of returning to Ciudad Bolivar, you plan an additional day to catch the flight to Santa Elena on the 2nd day and combine this tour easily with a tour to the Roraima or the Orinoco Delta. An other option is a day tour to indian Village called Kavac on the south side of Auyantepuy. Because of limited space in the small planes the luggage should not exceed 10 Kg plus a 5 kg handbag. Please pack as small as possible. We gladly organize your round trip from Caracas as you wish.
